Mrs. Victoria Hilebrand, No. 1215 Dillon street, celebrated her seventy-third anni-versary last Sunday evening, and received congratulations of three generations.

Mrs. Robert Atkinson, No. 4201 Washington bulevard, gave a buffet luncheon on Friday afternoon for Mrs. Harrison Steedman. The house was trimmed in pink roses and much green. Mrs. Atkinson wore a gown of black and white grenadine with white chiffon and lace; while Mrs. Steedman was in white crepe de Chine and Irish lace. The guests were mostly married women, and numbered one hundred.

one of the large entertainments of the week was the reception given by Mrs. John Adams Lee on Friday afternoon to introduce her daughter, Miss Virginia Dorcas Lee. Three hundred women friends of the hostess congratulated the debutante, who wore a charming frock of cream Renaissance lace over white taffeta, with a tulle guimpe. A pearl dog collar and large sheaf of American beauties were her ornaments. Mrs. Lee appeared in black embroidered chiffon over white silk, with a guimpe of unlined duchesee lace and several handsome diamond corsage ornaments. Miss Margaret Gathright, guest, wore lavender grenadine over white taffeta, with white lace and touches of pale-blue velvet. A group of intimate friends of the debutante assisted throughout the rooms. Miss Nettle Lee, younger sister of Miss Lee, and Miss Bertha Evans served the punch. Miss Margaret Jackson, Miss Lulu Duncan of Kansas City, Miss Sarah Balley and Miss Georgia Young were the others. The parlor was in pink roses and smilax, the music-room in liberty roses, and the dining-room in yellow chrysanthemumus. In the evening Lieutenant Governor John A. Lee joined the receiving party, and men as well as women were among the guests Young people were asked in large numbers and dancing became a feature after 10 o'clock.

Four important balls and ensure muse to last us for a month will be society's portion the coming week.

Good things as well as misfortunes some times decide to group themseives, and it appears this is the case with our mosic cert to-morrow, four opera performances begining on Wednesday night and ending on Friday, with two private musicales that will be large and interesting, and with the Choral-Symphony and Campanari to finish on Saturday night, we shall be positively saturated. It is decidedly unfortunate that everything comes at once, but cannot be helped, so far as any one is able to see, since there is a mutual dependence in the milaire. Mrs. Blgar Tilton, whose afternoon musicale is on Tuesday, has not announced her programme, so I am not positive that she has engaged any professionals, but Mrs. Kilpatrick's Wednesday afternoon enter-tainment, as everybody knows, will have Madame Schumann-Heink for its piece de resistance, and the Choral-Symphony memiers are felicitating themselves on the fact that they can succeed in getting Campanari on Saturday night, the gentleman coming to them from the opera cast, just as Schumann-Heink goes to Mrs. Kilpatrick and later to the Musical Union Club. So you see artists are arranged to fit, and we must be duly grateful that we can have such a fine week and not grumble over a possible case of music indigestion at the end of it.

Poor Mrs. Kilpatrick is positively ill at the unfortunate disturbance concerning Schumann-Heink. Of course, nobody at-taches the slightest blame to her in the

I understand that the Union Musical Club-has a slight grudge against Herbert With-erspoon, who sang at Mrs. Louis Chauve-net's last Monday night and then for the club on Tuesday; though in point of fact there was no express statement in his con-tract with the club to sing for its enter-tainment alone. But, ethically, the club-women have a right to feel disgruntled, since there is no doubt that a first per-crymence at a private house by any musiormance at a private house by any musi-cian of importance necessarily injures a subsequent public performance. Mrs. Chauvenet, however, entertained only about eighty guests, but Mr. Witherspoon sans to a very small audience the next night,

The balls of the week are to begin on Tuesday night with that given by the Training School laidles, to continue on Wednesday by the first meeting of the Co-tilion Club; on Thursday the D. O. C. ball, which is to be unusually smart this year, and to end on Friday night with Mrs. Dan Catlin's dance at Mahler's. So, you see, all the sets will dance, on at least one even-

Henry Lackland is indisposed, being threatened with pneumonis, and there is every likelihood that the first cotilion, therefore, will have to be led by some one else. Mr. Lackland did not appear at the Wickham bell last Thursday night, being too fil, and his friends have been quite alarmed. I understand that should he be well enough to lead on Wednesday, this is to be his last cotilion. He told several intimates not long ago that to be known as a professional cotilion leader was becomwith his business, and that he therefor with his dusiness, and that he therefore proposed to stop. Sensible persons will un-hesitatingly applaud his decision, while so-ciety in general will sorrow over its loss of a most capable, courteous and generally charming impressario of cotillons.

The first Imperial will be danced at the St. Louis Club Monday night, December 16. Six women of distinction are chosen by the secret committee this year to act as patron-esses. They are Mrs. Catlin, Mrs. Howard Elliott, Mrs. Jesse January, Mrs. Charles Nagel, Mrs. John David Davis and Miss Lionberger.

On Wednesday night of pext week, De-cember 18, the Frank Johnsons introduce their daughter at a ball given at the St. Louis Club, while on the following evening comes Emma Whitaker's dance, which is to be at Mahler's. Miss Whitaker had decided on Tuesday, but changed when the Imperial cards came out, as the men asked to both balls are about the same, and two such routs in succession are rather too much to expect of most St. Louisans, who do busi-ness stants with rather more devotion than that which they accord to social functions-

Mrs. "Lil" McNair has quite recovered from the illness which laid her prostrate at the time of the golf tournament, and has been playing most energetically nearly every morning of late on the Country Club

Mahogany is the fashionable hair tint this winter. Twice bleased is she to whom nature gave those rich and ruddy locks which have heretofore been denominated as anburn. (They are still auburn, but with a new name, i. e. "mahogany.") First, because the tints of nature cannot be improved on, strive as we may, and, second, because the quality and fineness of auburn hair is one of the best factor in its favor. Just a word to the girls who may attempt week might well be calculated to distress a woman of sensitive and retiring disposition, such as Mrs. Kilpatrick possesses. And this happens to be the first large entertainment that she has given for more than a year. However, everybody will go on Wednesday evening and listen to Jean Gerardy, whether Schumann-Heink sings or not.

I understand that the Uniter the sense of the sens ones-dyeing their hair to a brown or black.

Mrs. Selby Barnes is the luckiest woman of her set just now. Her hair has always been the object of secret envy among the women who know her, but never more than at the present time, when "mahogany" is the rage. the rage.

Henry Blossom came back the other day brief St. Louis visit. He is now in New York permanently, staying at the Lambs' Club, and busy at work on a dramatigation of "Checkers," also doing no small Dinner-dances are now considered to be aut fait for bringing out debutantes. They have quite superseded the erstwhile "tea" this winter in New York, and all the smart buds are making their first appearances at the more pretentious—and it must be added more expensive—form of tes, as everybody knows, costs just about so much, and all told, the expenses are by no means large if one's guests be moderate in number; but a dinner-dance, of any size at all-really, there is almost no limit to the cost. Their continuous feature is one thing to commend them, and there is no doubt whatever about the celat.

Mrss Helen Rocsevelt, whose father is a cousin of the President, will come out in this way next week. Mrs. Pierre Lorillard will give a dinner-dance for her niece, Miss Taylor of California; Henry Sloane will present his daughter, Miss Bessie Sloane, in this manner, and in January Mrs. Burke-Roche will give a similar function to introduce her daughter, Miss Cynthia Roche.

A new and cosy club has just been formed ig the younger set. Cards and dancing are to be the prevailing forms of amuse-ment, with "plenty of conversation," as sparkling little Hazel Jackson informs me. The club gave its premiere last Tuesday night, with Miss Jackson as hostess, and the following members as guests: Miss Olivia Ghio, Miss Florence York, Miss Bertha Turner, Miss Josephine Salorne, Miss Francine Lucas, Miss Cora Gehner, Miss Virginia Sanford, Miss Lillian Seynour, Miss Henrietta Bull, and Miss Care Jine Newman; Will Nicholson, John Ghio Wallace Culver, Ralph Coale, Guy Mariner Alfred T. Kelly, Jr., Martin Seward; Mesers, Bermudy, Shuelle, Lawvine, Kim-ball, with Doctor and Mrs. Otho Ball as the only married couple.

Euchre was the diversion at this first meeting. Miss Ghio will give a second card party in a fortnight at the Ghio country place in Normandy, and Miss Sanford will give the club a dance on Christmas Ev
